Subject: Urgent action to prevent two drug-related executions in Bahrain

Dear High Commissioner Bachelet,

The International Drug Policy Consortium, Harm Reduction International, and the International Network of People who use Drugs, alongside 137 co-signing NGOs from 55 countries, are requesting the Office of the High Commissioner for Human Rights (OHCHR) – together with the United Nations Office on Drugs and Crime (UNODC) and the International Narcotics Control Board (INCB) - to take urgent action calling on Bahrain to halt two imminent executions for drug offences.

On 28 January 2020, Bahrain's highest court, the Court of Cassation, upheld death sentences against two defendants (whose identity has not been disclosed) convicted of drug trafficking and smuggling on 31 December 2018. They have now exhausted all legal remedies, placing them at imminent risk of execution.¹

Bahrain has carried out six executions since it lifted its de facto moratorium on the death penalty in 2017, which had been in place since 2010. In summer 2019, Bahrain executed Ali Mohamed Hakeem al-Arab, 25, and Ahmed Isa Ahmed Isa al-Malali, 24, despite the United Nations expressing 'serious concerns' that they had been subject to torture and unfair trials.² Agnes Callamard, UN Special Rapporteur on extrajudicial, summary or arbitrary executions, described their deaths as 'arbitrary killings'.³ Another unnamed individual was executed alongside them.

As of January 2020, at least 24 people are on death row in Bahrain; of those, at least four have been convicted of drug offences, and at least 10 are at imminent risk of execution, having exhausted all legal remedies.⁴ The UN Committee Against Torture has expressed concerns about the 'continued and consistent allegations of widespread torture' to elicit confessions, as well as 'widespread acceptance' of forced confessions by Bahraini judges.⁵

Death sentences and executions for drug offences are prohibited under both international human rights and international drug control law.⁶

Drug offences do not meet the threshold of the 'most serious crimes' to which Article 6.2 of the International Covenant on Civil and Political Rights (which Bahrain acceded to) mandates that capital punishment be restricted in retentionist countries. This has been most recently reaffirmed by the Human Rights Council in its September 2019 Resolution 42/24,⁷ as well as by the OHCHR which has been unequivocal in its conclusion that 'The death penalty should be abolished for all crimes, including for drug offences'.⁸

We also welcome the UNODC statement, released on 27 June 2019, which concludes that 'The three international drug control conventions... cannot be used to justify the use of the death penalty for drug-related offences alone', and 'urges all Member States to adhere to their commitments to promote balanced, human rights-based approaches to drug control, and we stand ready to engage with all countries to bring criminals to justice with the appropriate legal safeguards, in line with international standards and norms'.⁹

Similarly, the International Narcotics Control Board (INCB) has consistently stated that 'if drug control measures adopted by States violate internationally recognised human rights standards and norms, they also violate the international drug control conventions',¹⁰ and called 'on countries that maintain capital punishment for drug-related offences to consider its abolition'.¹¹

In view of the imminent risk of execution which the two individuals condemned for drug offences in Bahrain are faced with, we call on you to once again issue a public statement urging the government of Bahrain to commute their sentences, and abolish the death penalty for drug offences; and to engage in an urgent dialogue with the government to promote an immediate reinstatement of the moratorium on the use of the death penalty.
